

Is Bullying Making Your Job Difficult and Unpleasant?

Workplace Bullying costs up to $3000 per annum* on average for each and every employee in the Australian workforce

- The direct cost is between $17,000 and $24,000⁺
- The indirect costs are far more....

Would you know how to answer to the Fair Work Commission? How much would that cost you in

- Your time?
- Your manager's time?
- Legal and professional fees?
- Disruption to your workplace?

Can you afford not to be prepared?

You're invited to a half day workshop where you'll be provided with proactive measures to prevent bullying claims and practical responses if they happen.

You will be provided with key information and resources on:

- What contributes to workplace bullying – the causes and sources
- Signs that workplace bullying is occurring – especially the subtle but often more damaging bullying that saps long term productivity
- The effects on the victim, the bully, the bystanders, the business and even the customers
- Proactive strategies to prevent bullying and increase morale
- Practical step by step guide to successfully handle bullying complaints

- When? Tuesday 11th July 2017, 9:30 am to 12:30 pm.
- Where? The Assembly Building, Level 1, 156 Collins Street Melbourne.
- Who is it for? Managers, supervisors, co-ordinators, business owners and those with an interest in resolving workplace conflict and looking after staff at work.
- Cost? $242 (includes GST) includes participant booklet, resources and morning tea. Early Bird registrations (by 5pm on Tuesday 20th July) receive a special price of $176 (inc GST) and a bonus one hour complimentary consultation valued at $265.10 (inc GST).
