

What is

Workplace Bullying

costing you?

Is workplace bullying making your job difficult or unpleasant? Workplace Bullying costs up to $3000 per annum* on average for each and every employee in the Australian workforce. The direct cost is between $17,000 and $24,000+.

The indirect costs are far more...

Can you afford not to be prepared? Book Your Place Now!

You're invited to an exclusive (maximum 10 participants) half day seminar where you'll be provided with proactive measures to prevent bullying claims and practical responses if they happen.

Seminar Content

- Understanding workplace bullying - the causes and sources
- Signs that workplace bullying is occurring - especially the subtle but often more damaging bullying that saps long term productivity
- The effects on the victim, the bully, the bystanders, the business and even the customers
- Proactive strategies to prevent bullying and increase morale
- Practical step by step guide to successfully handle bullying complaints

Who is it for?

Managers, Business Owners, Decision Makers, Supervisors, Co-ordinators, and those with an interest in resolving workplace conflict and looking after staff at work

When Wednesday March 4th 2020, 9:15AM - 12.45PM

Where Level 1, 156 Collins Street, Melbourne 3000

Cost $198.00

RSVP February 28, 2020

Bookings email: mail@enableworkplace.com.au or call Abbey Brown, Executive Assistant on (03) 9663 9168.

Nerio Baldini Senior Consultant
Has over 30 years experience in Employee and Industrial Relations. He specialises in conflict resolution, negotiation skills and equal opportunity.

Amrit Kaur Provisional Psychologist/counsellor experienced in workplace health and wellbeing and building positive interpersonal relationships.

Enable Workplace Consulting specialises in enabling organisations to get on with their core business rather than spending time dealing with workplace issues.